Rare Finds

For the Curious & the Connoisseur

I've selected ten wines with distinctive character and personality—bottles that are rarely poured by the glass and not always easy to find. For a limited time, I've reduced the prices significantly to give you the opportunity to explore unique, expressive, and delicious wines that truly stand out.

Quinta da Pedra Escrita

In 2007, Rui Roboredo Madeira recovered Quinta da Pedra Escrita in his family for over 8 generations, with 17 ha of vineyards located in the sub-region Douro Superior. Dry and arid soils are predominantly granitic, sandy and very poor in nutrients. The vineyard was planted here in the belief that the granite soils at altitude give rise to wines with extremely complex aromas and great longevity as in the past. This is a tradition that he wants to bring back to a world of increasingly stereotyped wines, and which emphasizes the unique character of the wines from the Douro region.

Beyra’s Vineyard

Among the highest vineyards of Portugal was the motto to release the Beyra project in 2011, with the pioneering concept of Altitude Wines. Since the first time it has become the flagship brand of the Beira Interior wine region.

The terroir’s richness of the Douro River basin, the transition soils from the schist of the valley to the granite of the mountains nearby, with high amounts of quartz veins, were the inspiration to plant vineyards on the land next to the winery. Beyra’s vineyard seeks to combine innovation in viticulture in a region dominated by old vineyards, perfectly adapted to the rigors of altitude, being one of the hidden treasures of the large vineyard heritage of Portugal.

Sociedade de Vinhos de Borba

Founded in 1968 in the heart of the Borba sub-region, Sociedade de Vinhos de Borba is one of Alentejo's historic wine producers. Under the recent leadership of Fernando Tavares, the estate has entered a new era with a renewed focus on quality and innovation. The winery crafts both classic and experimental wines that reflect the richness of Borba's terroir.

Adega Cartuxa (Fundação Eugénio de Almeida)

Behind Adega Cartuxa is a great family, the Eugénio de Almeida family. In 1913, Vasco Maria was born in Lisbon into one of the most influential families of the 19th century. The family had extensive heritage in Évora and Alentejo, Vasco Maria always considered people to be the most valuable asset, and he organised all his life around this philosophy. Among other achievements he revitalises winemaking and planted a vast area of olive groves just a few kilometres from Évora, which resulted in the wines and olive oils produced to this day.

Kranemann Wine Estates

Kranemann Wine Estates in Tavora, Portugal, is a wine and wine tourism project envisaged by Christoph Kranemann, a German Canadian wine connoisseur. A visit to Quinta do Convento de São Pedro das Águias, a flagship property, ended a 20-year search of wine regions across three continents for a unique terroir to produce outstanding wines. The Quinta dates back to the XII century, a perfect backdrop for a love of history and architecture. Kranemann Wine Estates became a reality in 2018, following the purchase of the flagship property from a Canadian mining company, becoming the key to a new winemaking and wine tourism project in the Távora Valley.

Henriques & Henriques

The history of Henriques & Henriques goes back to the year 1850 when the company was founded by João Gonçalves Henriques, a descendant of a family that established itself in Câmara de Lobos many years ago. After his death in 1912, his sons, João Joaquim and Francisco Eduardo Henriques, formed a partnership from which the name "Henriques & Henriques" originated.
